A799, More Reasons than Ever

Now there are more reasons than ever to buy the CognitiveTPG A799 receipt printer. Effective February 1, 2011 all A799 receipt printers come with a new 4-year standard warranty, memory upgrade, and a lower price point (under $400 MSRP).

In addition to the new warranty and lower price, the A799 will include added features such as an increased Flash Memory (4MB) to support the additional font sets included on the printer and the ability for paper-saving multi-column printing, which was demonstrated at the NRF Retail Now Show in January.

"The added warranty is just one more way we can prove to our customers that our printers are built to last," said Roman Dziaba, Senior Product Manager for CognitiveTPG.

Crystal Service Chooses CognitiveTPG Printer for Russian Fiscal Market

Maxa Technologies, a CognitiveTPG distributor based in the United Kingdom, announced a partnership with Crystal Service, a software developer in Russia serving the financial services market, to enable the development of a fiscal device for the CognitiveTPG A798 and A799 single station printers.

Maxatec worked closely with CognitiveTPG and Crystal Service to qualify and approve the A798 /A799 printers for this modular POS system. The introduction of the modular POS system utilizing a fiscal printer enables the retailer to optimise the front office desk space for cash handling.

Logivision, POS Software Developer, Certifies A799 Printer

CognitiveTPG is pleased to announce that POS software developer, Logivision, has tested and certified the A799 Receipt printer.

"We have worked with CognitiveTPG receipt printers in the past, then under the TPG name, and found them to be very reliable and easy to work with. We were not surprised that the A799 printer delivered the same reliability and ease of use. The A799 was instantly compatible and offered a fast and clear print," said Peter Bohonis, co-owner of Logivision.
